Amy Renkert

Amy Renkert has built her career as both an internal and external consultant in the areas of organization and leadership development. She has worked with a wide range of companies using her understanding of individuals, teams and organizations to help leaders and businesses be more successful.

Amy provides design and implementation assistance to her clients as they work through changes such as acquisitions, divestitures, restructurings, growth and continuous improvement projects. Her experience in human systems has helped her clients integrate their leadership and career development, succession planning, training and performance management initiatives with their business strategy and culture.

Prior to launching her career as an independent consultant, Amy held a number of leadership roles in the Human Resources, Training and Organization Development functions with the Honeywell-Bull, TRW, Avery Dennison and GenCorp organizations with both domestic and worldwide responsibility.

Her work as an external consultant typically falls into the following areas:

- Organization assessment
- Leadership development
- Performance management
- Teambuilding
- Customized training design and delivery
- Executive coaching

Amy is certified in a number of training and facilitation programs and is master trained in the 360-degree feedback process. Her strength lies in designing and delivering completely customized approaches for clients; whether it's individual, team or organization-wide projects to improve overall effectiveness.

Her educational background includes a Master of Science in Organization Development from the Weatherhead School of Management at Case Western Reserve University and a Bachelor of Arts degree from Wellesley College. Amy is a member of the Organization Development Network and the Human Resources Planning Society.
